yes we're open
(after "Analogue"[1])

lining & trimming
everything for men hard to get items cash used jewelry come back adding machines serve yourself we have ice family meats

meats meats meats fresh everyday instant
repair must

sell all make offer & save we drop off pick up

one hour photo fade
shave boys cut flat top senior citizen the end is near

please remember to return
child welcome
permanent eyeliners top & bottom

soft hair it relaxes
we accept stamps
true desires of beauty

does not fade in water half off new issues & prints unisex images peep world

cosmos for rent
boys for rent
citizens for rent
everything for men for rent
we sell at cheap price

quality & reliability

---

[1] In the late 1990s, artist Zoe Leonard began documenting urban life in Manhattan's Lower East Side. Using a 1940s Rolleiflex camera she captured vanishing mom-and-pop stores and their neglected products, as well as their re-emergence via recycled merchandise in Cuba, Africa, Eastern Europe, Mexico, and the Middle East.

soft hair
permanent eyelashes
permanent lip liner
live poultry
last wash

suckling pigs
true desires
with two time FREE retouch electrical appliances for the home
it relaxes yes

we're open
entire store now 88 cents on special

child issues
drop off pick up
money is life

please remember to return
please money
please remember money

is near pick up
drop off remember
money is the end